ISC STUDIO & RAUNJIBA Furniture open new design office & showroom in Yonkers YOHO Art's Space.

February 16th 2012, Yonkers, New York

ISC STUDIO will open the doors this Spring to their new head quarters in The former Alexander Smith Carpet Mills complex in Yonkers, abandoned in the 1950's the factory building is now the center of an emerging arts scene in southern Westchester.

ISC is a design and creative services company founded in 2004 by artist Scott Benjamin Tucker. Together with his partner, designer Tracey Brooke they develop design solutions for commercial and residential clients. Their portfolio includes hospitality and retail interiors, luxury residential interiors and corporate event interiors. Their new design office. will house an art gallery, a showroom for Tucker's custom furniture line RAUNJIBA, a luxury museum store, and a prototype production workshop.

ISC STUDIO's transition from Brooklyn to YoHo has presented many new opportunities. Tracey and Scott intend to support the growth of the YoHo artist community by cultivating a public art gallery and executing group exhibitions featuring fellow YoHo artists.

Gallery operation will be supported by students enrolled in ISC's "Hudson Art Internship program", in conjunction with participating New York design schools and the MTA.
