FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

A Moment with YOHO Artist Hilan Shyu

January 31, 2012 (Yonkers, NY) – For Hilan Shyu, a painting has many layers and transforms over time through meditation in the quiet of her private studio. Hilan is new to the YOHO community and has already developed a profound appreciation for her personal space and the productivity it allows her. She has established a routine of arriving at her studio around 9:00 each morning, where she is currently working on finishing existing works, and is planning a series of eight paintings in a similar style instead of her usual sets of three. Her paintings emerge from momentary inspiration, and often feature abstract machine-like subjects powered by steam and suspended circular and rectangular shapes.

“The key thing for me is not to struggle,” Hilan explains. “I really enjoy the process.”

Hilan’s work will be displayed at www.yohoartists.com and on site at 578 Nepperhan Avenue in Yonkers. For more information about YOHO please contact George Huang at (212) 317 – 1423, ext. 601.
